Maximize your hose package lifetime with CiRo

Cables and hoses are often the main factors limiting robot movement, often causing unpredictable production stops. At the same time, there is great demand for a compact cell layout and flexible production.

CiRo is a cost-effective solution to achieve the flexibility of internal cabling. Hoses and cables for air, signals and power can be selected according to the requirements of the application. Axis 6 can rotate with extended freedom.

- Up to $\pm 250^\circ$ rotation

With CiRo

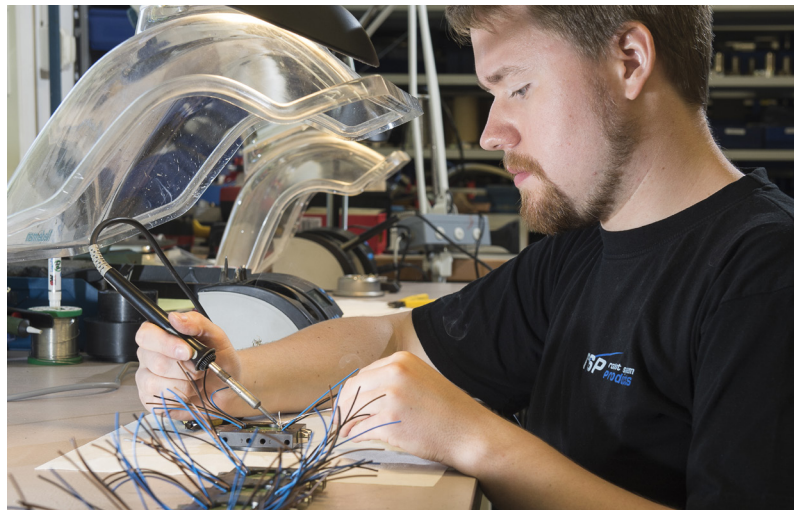

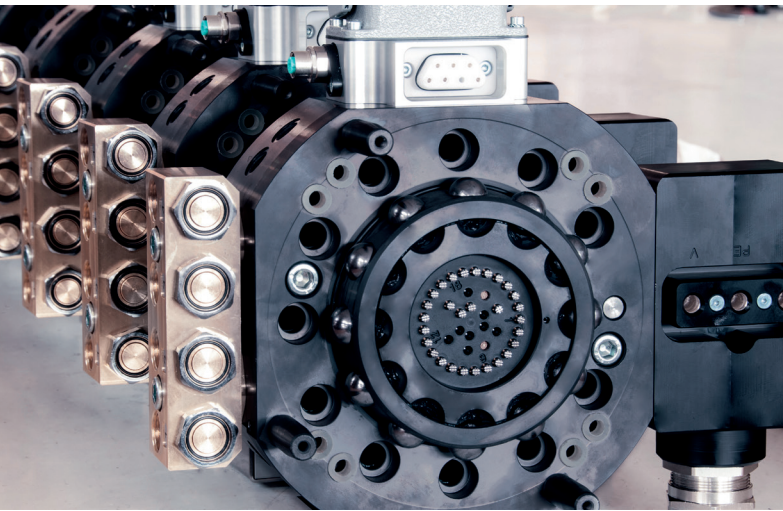

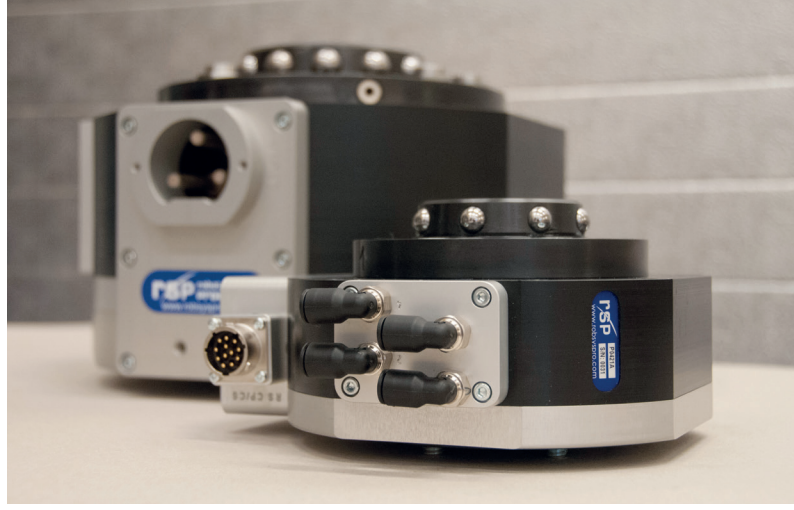

Axis 6 rotate with extended freedom.
Production uptime increases.

Without CiRo

A longer hose package is required which limits the flexibility and increases the risk of production stops.
